Lewis E. Munk 1929-1933

Snowflake Herald August 23 1929:

“There is considerable talk of adding football to the athletics sponsored by the school, and, according to school officials, if there is any way to finance it, it will be added. In this event, Lewis Munk will be the coach.”

Sep 13, 1929

“There is nothing definite in regards to football this year, according to Mr. Fish, despite reports to the effect that the game had been added to the school’s sports. A meeting to discuss financing the purchase of equipment will be held Friday at which time the question will be definitely decided. Due to the purchase of the busses, school finances have been badly depleted and it is the purpose of this meeting to determine a means of financing the purchase of equipment without placing the school under too great an expense this year.”

Sep. 20 1929

“Union high school will shortly add another major activity to her extracurricular program. Equipment which will put twenty-two football players fully clothed in the field has been ordered. For some time team candidates and coaches alike are marking time until it arrives. Enthusiasm in the new sport runs high on the school campus. Approximately thirty-five men are out for the team. Although equipment is lacking as yet, work is rapidly going forward to ground the men in the fundamentals of the game. If development is as rapid as expected, the team will be fairly well versed in the game for it’s first encounter of the season, a possible encounter with the Round Valley High to be played during the fair. Union high school has a great deal of ideal football material which, with a reasonable amount of practice should work up into a great team. The fact that facilities at the school have been so conducive to football and yet that the sport has never been installed before, has always puzzled surrounding schools which play the game. With the announcement that Union high will now play football several of them are anxious to meet her on the gridiron. A football field has been planned immediately south of the school building. With work progressing rapidly on it, it should be ready for play in a short time.”

Nov. 11, 1955

This story, told by Roy Palmer and John F. Hunt, of the first football game in school history appeared in the newspaper the day that UHS would defeat Holbrook and claim it’s first undefeated season.

“Football suits arrived the day before the game, to be played in Winslow, and the team went to Winslow with suits they had never worn.

Unable to properly dress in their new suits, an appeal was finally made to some of the Winslow players to help them “suit up.” “Diked out” in their brand new suits, players took the field like they were in straight-jackets, and as muddled as they ever remembered.”

Bulldogs won the game 60 to 0.

Sep. 8, 1933

“Football Unlikely to be Played This Fall Here”

“Failure of other schools in the conference to play football this season may force U.H.S. to abandon the sport for a year. Although the school is in good condition to play, unless it can get a large enough schedule to warrant practice it may drop football as a scholastic sport during 1933.”

Sep. 15, 1933

“According to word received this morning the U.H.S. will play football this year.”

November 11, 1955. Holbrook Tribune

“INAUGURATE “TRAP AND CAGE” TROPHY TRADITION FRIDAY”

“Following Friday’s football game in Holbrook between Holbrook High School Roadrunners and Snowflake Union High School Lobos, a “cage and trap” ceremony will inaugurate what is planned to be an annual tradition between the two schools.

A trophy consisting of a trap and birdcage will be presented to the captain of the losing team who will present the trophy to the winning team. If the Lobos win, the trap will be fastened to the cage signifying the Roadrunners have been trapped by the Lobos. If Holbrook wins, the trap will be placed inside the cage, signifying the Lobos have been caged by the Roadrunners.

The Tradition being inaugurated this year has been approved by the student councils of both schools.”

December 4, 1985. Letter written to Snowflake Head Coach Richard Hoyt from Round Valley Head Coach Tot Workman a week after their teams tied in the State Championship football game.

Dear Coach Hoyt,

Now that I have had time to sit and reflect on our experience a week ago; the more I realize what a great game it was. I also realize what a great privilege it was for me to coach this game.

Reason #1 – To coach against such a fine staff as yours.

Reason #2 - To coach against such a class group of kids as yours.

Reason #3 – To coach against such a fine community.

Reason #4 – To have the same three reasons on my side.

I love my staff, kids, and community just as I know you do. I have coached 228 games, and I now have one tie. It was a hard earned tie that I will always remember, and be grateful for in many ways. Coach I wish you the very best and look forward to seeing you in the off-season.

Please take time to congratulate your fine team. I always appreciate a tough, clean bunch of young men. They are a credit to you, your school, your community and most of all to their families and self.

Respectfully yours,

Coach Tot Workman,

Head Football Coach

The following is a portion of a letter that was written to Lorum Stratton by Lewis Munk. Lewis Munk was the first football coach at Union High School, (today known as Snowflake High School.) Lorum Stratton gave me this letter in the spring of 2005, asking me to share it with other people.

Dear Lorum.

Thank you for the “Lobo Homecoming 2001 Snowflake Lobos” material. What vast changes have been made since I was instrumental in coaching the first five teams! I enjoyed reading it immensely.

Since no records were kept or were lost, there is no mention of such stars of the gridiron as Arlo Hunt, John Hunt, Owen Freeman, or our won-lost record, which was respectable, especially after Arlo came.

Here is my memory of the beginning of football at Union High School in Snowflake, Ariz., in 1929.

My graduation exercises at BYU were over, and I was walking up the main hall in the old Education Building with some friends. We were passing the bulletin board when I happened to turn my head toward the board and was surprised to see my name on it. It was a request for me to meet with a principal from an Arizona school district who was seeking teachers for his high school faculty.

In room 4 I met a small gentleman named Silas Fish. He greeted me with the question, “How would you like to come to Arizona to teach school?”

There were two lifetime careers which I vowed I would never follow, teaching school and farming. Anyway, I had already chosen my life’s work. I was scheduled to become a news writer. For two years I had been the Associated Press’s representative at BYU and as such had written up every athletic event of the school, as well as other newsworthy events. In addition I had been sports editor of the “Y” News and had been asked to run for the position of editor of the paper, at one time. I had made my way through my last two years of school financially by earning a cent a word from the Associated Press stories and the 15 cents an inch space rate from the Deseret News, Tribune and others.

I asked Mr. Fish what I would be asked to teach. He said freshman English, and Spanish. He also said that football suits had been ordered for the school's first football team ever and that I would be the team's coach. It seemed to make no difference to him that I had never had a football suit on. Our school at Montpelier didn't have a team until a year after I graduated. I had written many games up for the newspaper. But there is a big difference between reporting and coaching. I knew little of blocking or coaching defense. I knew little of the English grammar I was supposed to teach, and less than that of beginning Spanish.

I asked Mr. Fish if the school had a tennis court. He said "Yes, a new one." I asked if there was a piano in the school that I could practice on. He smiled and said "yes." I asked how much the job paid and was told $1,400.

I signed a contract, (why I'll never know, I already made more than $1,400 at BYU.) and my life's course for the next 41 years were set in concrete. Just before the football season started I received a request from Bob Goodell, a Tribune sports writer, to come to Provo and be sports writer (or editor) of the Herald. I had to decline, as the school was ready to open. Bob had been made editor of the Herald.

The suits came and responding to my call for players, was a gym full of prospective players, most of whom had never seen a football game. There were several who weighed in the neighborhood of 185 pounds and were strong farm boys. All they lacked for a winning season was a good coach. Our defense proved strong, but we had no coordinated offense, no qualified coach.

Armistice Day we rode our school's Model A bus with 22 players to Kingman, Arizona, for a game with the local high school. The score of the game as I remember it, some 72 years later, was 52-0 for Kingman.

On the way home a squeak in the rear gears in the back of the bus grew to a loud ear-splitting roar. The rear end had gone out at Seligman, a tiny town on the highway. Luckily the town had a garage and a grocery store. A week after our enforced stop we were on our way home once again. The boys didn't mind getting out of school and neither did I.

We didn't score a touchdown for the first year. ("Spud" Flake ran 50 yards for our first touchdown, but Hal MacNeil, a local referee, called it back on a clipping charge.) Then our fortunes changed with the coming of Arlo Hunt to the squad. Here is the story of how we recruited him. One nice day in the fall, or spring, before football season began, Owen Freeman, a very competent end, stopped at my living quarters in a slopped-down Model T Ford. The only refinement on the chassis was a board, which was laid across the base gas tank. Owen said he had in mind a trip 14 miles out of town in cattle country to interview a good football prospect, who might be persuaded to enroll in the high school at Snowflake and play football even though he had never seen a game in his life.

We bounced our way through bush cattle country and dirt roads to a windmill that pumped water for the cattle. By it was a small cabin.

Owen stopped the Ford and hollered as loud as he could, "Arlo". The door opened and a physical giant filled the doorway—Arlo Hunt 21 years old. (There were no restrictions on age at that time to participate in football). He weighed 210 pounds. He was swift on foot. He could throw a bullet pass with the football. He was well coordinated, we found later. Yes, he would like to come to high school where there were "more girls." He hadn't got out of the eighth grade yet, but I would take care of that. When he came in to school he was the center of attention. I enrolled him in ancient history, which I taught him myself. He passed, and picked up the needed credit.

We found a suit big enough to accommodate his marvelous body. The whole football squad helped him get into his suit. In it he looked as big as a mountain. We took him out on our playing field, lined him up and ran him off tackle two, maybe three times. He didn't know what it was all about, but he was willing to do anything he was asked to do. Then the practice was over, and we had to go in.

The next Friday we had a game with a neighboring school. They had played a game or two already and were pretty well coordinated. This was our first game. At the half they were ahead of us by two touchdowns. Our offense seemed completely bogged down.

The thought came to me on the sideline, "Why not send in the big fellow for a play or two?" We were beaten already, it seemed.

"Go on in, Arlo," I said, "Run where you ran last night with the ball."

"OK, Mr. Munk," Arlo said, as he started across the field, pulling on his out-sized helmet as he ran.

The team members on the field greeted his coming with cheers. They handed him the ball on the first snap. He hit the line with a tremendous blow. The line bent and then followed him about ten yards down the field. The second and third plays were the same. Our team crossed the goal line three times. Arlo carried the ball on every play. We had won our first game unexpectedly.

After the game, Arlo came up to me with a puzzled look on his face. "Mr. Munk," he said, "after I got through them guys, should I have kept on running?" After my initial shock, I assured him that he should have.

Players in Round Valley in a later game broke Arlos' leg in a concentrated piling on him, orchestrated by team members and even the coach himself.

We won most of our games after that, we lost a lone game to Winslow High 13-7, a big school west of us 60 miles; but we beat St. Johns in the final ten seconds. Arlo jumped over their left end who lay inept under the block of "Hunk" Willis, our quarterback. Then he stiff-armed their safety and outran their defensive halfback for the victory. That was the last football I ever coached.

We played in those first games under difficult, primitive conditions. The field we played and practiced on was as hard as a cement sidewalk almost. On it grew, not soft grass, but a devilish little plant we called "bullhead". It had long, sharp, needle-like points that could penetrate football uniforms and the soft flesh underneath.

I had to coach both backfield and line myself alone, an impossibility for an experienced, qualified coach, let alone a rank beginner like me. Cecil Merkeley joined me as a line coach later.

Where our team's doctor was Doc Webb, with his one eye and one hand and a stub, nowadays the modern squad has a whole medical staff to attend the slightest injury. Doc Webb was reported to treat every injury by a sharp hit in the back of the patient. I was always afraid he would create more wounds than he cured. Today's team has a "support" team, consisting of dozens of loyal fans. We had a handful of fans that stood on the sidelines and, before they learned the game of football, often cheered the opposing team as lustily as they did our own.

Besides football I have dozens of Snowflake memories that I cherish, I could go on and on with these recollections. Some I will always keep and treasure: First, how good a friend you have been to me throughout the years. I appreciate this friendship more than I can say.

Best wishes and thanks, Lorum for everything.

With love,

Lewis Munk
